DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed on September 16th, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicant argues that Eisele's blister pack is not a flexible coiled tape but rather a plastic carrier disk that is sufficiently rigid. The examiner disagrees. Nowhere in Eisele's reference does it state that the blister pack is sufficiently rigid as stated in the applicant's arguments.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 3, and 8 through 15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Since the amended claims 1 and 13 contain new matter this rejection is made final.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 3, 8, 13, 14, and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Eisele et al. US Patent No. 5,921,237 in view of Eisele et al. US Patent No. 6,029,663.

Eisele discloses the applicant's invention as claimed with the exception of providing puncture holes formed in the top crown areas of the blister pack. Eisele discloses a dry powder inhaler delivery system that does provide puncture holes formed in the top crown areas of the blister pack. Therefore it would have been obvious to modify Eisele's invention by providing puncture holes formed in the top crown areas of the blister pack in order to make it easier to open.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Eisele et al. U.S. Patent No. 5,921,237 in view of Pera U.S. Patent No. 5,944,012.

Eisele discloses the applicant's invention as claimed with the exception of stating that the material comprises a vitamin.

Pera discloses a method for dispensing antioxidant vitamin by inhalation background of the invention that does state that the material comprises a vitamin. Therefore it would be obvious to modify Eisele's invention by stating that the material comprises a vitamin so that one knows the limitations of the invention.

Claims 10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Eisele et al. U.S. Patent No. 6,029,663 in view of Hendricks U.S. Patent No. 5,699,789.

Eisele discloses the applicant's invention as claimed with the exception of stating that the material comprises a hormone or a steroid.

Hendricks discloses a dry powder inhaler that does state that the material comprises a hormone or a steroid. Therefore it would be obvious to modify Eisele's invention by stating that the material comprises a hormone or a steroid so that one knows the limitations of the invention.

Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Eisele et al. U.S. Patent No. 6,029,663 in view of Shyjan U.S. Patent No. 6,312,909.

Eisele discloses the applicant's invention as claimed with the exception of stating that the material comprises a bioactive material.

Shyjan discloses a compositions and methods for the diagnosis prevention and treatment of tumor progression that does state that the material comprises a bioactive material. Therefore it would be obvious to modify Eisele's invention by stating that the material comprises a bioactive material so that one knows the limitations of the invention.

Conclusion

In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
